

To: Jeffrey Epstein[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: Lisa New
Sent: Wed 5/22/2013 1:07:01 PM
Subject: hello and favor

Dear Jeffrey,

I not only dreamt about Woody, and Soon Yi, last night, but this morning--I am not kidding--ate the first plums of the season for breakfast. My online course is going strong, we are assembling a slate of little cameos on poetry (going for various actors we know--John Lithgow, Will Smith, Robert Di Niro, )Larry wants me to go for all the living Presidents, but I find this ostentatious) and I would really be so thrilled if Woody would have a five minute conversation with me, on video, about the William Carlos Williams poem we discussed in your plane, the one that begins

This is just to say

I have eaten the plums
that were in the icebox

I could bring a camera person to New York ( I will be there taping on Whitman, and beginning a William Carlos Williams shoot as well ) and it would take 5 minutes. Or I would love to have Woody and Soon Yi to brunch here, or at Harvard, if they'd like that.

Can you advise?

Love
lisa

--

Elisa New
Powell M. Cabot Professor of American Literature
Harvard University
[REDACTED]

Cambridge, MA
02138
[REDACTED]